

A GOSPEL FOR THE HAPPY?

Philippians 4:4

Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: Rejoice!

Some Christians think we should convince the world that they're miserably unhappy to make them feel their need to come to Christ. As a policy that doesn't work very well and it lacks credibility with so many because they don't feel miserable. Maybe we should say other things as well.

We must have a gospel for those who are sad and beaten, but a woman once asked E.S. Jones: "You have a gospel for the hurting; do you have one for the happy? I have a happy home; my husband and my children love me and I love them and we haven't any particular financial worries. Have you any gospel for me-a happy person?"

Yes! Rejoice in the Lord always! Now, get on with this life-filled life!

(From Where the Spirit of the Lord is...Howard Publishing, used by permission.)

jim mcguiggan